LIMA BROKE; TO CUT OFF LIGHTING

LIMA, O., November 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Lack of necessary funds to pay salaries of firemen and policemen will plunge this city into at least partial darkness on and after December 1, according to an announcement by Mayor Harold Cunningham, when all street lighting service will be cut off indefinitely. All street cleaning will be discontinued, Cunningham said. The police force will be reduced from 20 to 25, and the firemen from forty to thirty-two. Some of the departments will be open only part time.

"All for Lima day," when moving picture theatres gave their entire receipts for a day and private subscriptions were made by citizens for the depleted safety fund, resulted in nearly $5,000 being received, it was announced Monday. The amount on hand will pay salaries until Dec. 1, officials said.

Mayor Cunningham and Manager C. A. Bingham have issued an appeal to citizens to assist in maintaining law and order while the city is in darkness.

EXPLOSION SPREADS DEATH AND HORROR IN ALABAMA MINE

Eight-four miners were killed by a freak explosion in the Dolomite coal mine, Birmingham, Ala. The dotted line shows the course of the dump cars which broke away, tore down the tipples and, after going down the 300-foot incline, crashed into the yard below. Great clouds of coal dust arose. A high-tension electric cable severed at the crash ignited the dust. In the terrific explosion, 40 men were killed outright at the foot of the tipples. Deadly after-dump accounted for the remainder of the victims.

BRITISH DECLARE SAN REMO AGREEMENT NULL AND VOID

LAUSANNE, November 27.—(By the United Press)—America was her fight for the open door in the near east today when the British declaration announced that Britain had abandoned the San Remo oil agreement. The British said they considered this agreement nullified and stated that it would not be applied. This announcement followed Secretary Lord Curzon's declaration that no divergence of views existed between England and America on the open door question. Marquis Curzon, foreign secretary, announced officially today that England and America were completely agreed on an open door policy in the near east.

Held For Murder Of Five People

BRISTOL, TENN., November 27.—(By the United Press)—Ben Burchfield, possessor of an assortment of bloody clothing, was held in jail today as arrangements were completed for the burial of five murder victims. The home of James W. Smith, grocer, was burned to the ground, and authorities found bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Burchfield and her two children in the smoking ruins. Burchfield recently divorced from his wife, was arrested at Johnson City, Tenn., when bloody clothing he wore, attracted attention. He refused to discuss the killing. Police believe Burchfield brutally murdered his wife and stepson at the Smith home by striking them in the head with an axe. The bodies were then saturated with oil and the house set on fire in an effort to hide the crime.

Denby Scores "Middie Drunks"

WASHINGTON, November 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The conduct of the Annapolis midshipmen at the Army and Navy football game in Philadelphia Saturday was arraigned in a public statement today by Secretary Denby of the navy department, declaring that members of the corps had brought disgrace not only on themselves but on the Naval Academy.

"How many midshipmen drank heavily, I do not know," said the secretary's statement, but he added that despite the good behavior of many, enough midshipmen had "failed to do their duty to their uniform and to their country to bring shame upon all."

La Follette Would Like To See Both Parties Scrapped

PHOENIX, ARIZ., November 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Robert La Follette, United States senator from Wisconsin, told him in a long distance telephone conversation from Washington that the people had spoken twice to the majority parties, and if they had to speak again it would be to welcome a third party. George W. P. Hunt, governor-elect of Arizona, said here last night. He may send a representative to the meeting of progressive leaders called by Senator La Follette at Washington for December 2, but will not attend, Mr. Hunt said.

Senator La Follette said he would just as soon see both old parties scrapped, according to Mr. Hunt, pointing out that radical or progressive candidates in eight states had been victorious in the recent elections through close combination of organized farmers and union workers and that an analysis of the returns would show Mr. Hunt's election by such a combination.

"The iron is hot, it is time to strike," was one of Senator La Follette's expressions, Mr. Hunt declared. "The psychology of the dissatisfied masses, dissatisfied because they are not getting living wages, because they are not getting sufficient return for their crops to pay taxes and buy groceries, is at the back of this political upheaval," Hunt asserted, the Wisconsin senator told him.

Mr. Hunt will confer with Democratic leaders here today before deciding what he will do with regard to attending the conference. Mr. Hunt said Senator La Follette outlined in detail the plans being formulated for a governing bloc in both the senate and house.

Lockout Of Bricklayers

NEW YORK, November 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The Mason Builders' Association today issued a lockout order to its 128 members, ordering them to pay off all bricklayers employed by them at five p. m. tomorrow as a protest against the bricklayers' refusal to work with independent laborers.

Griswold Out For Speaker

COLUMBUS, O., November 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Representative B. H. Griswold, of Chardon, Geauga county, has made formal announcement of his candidacy for speaker of the house of representatives January 1. In the last two assemblies, Mr. Griswold devoted much time to taxation measures and was one of the leaders in the various efforts to obtain the enactment of remedial tax laws. Several now on the statute books are commonly known as the "Griswold Laws," he having introduced the bills. Though a member of the "Cura Stalk Club," a farmer's organization in the assembly which has consistently opposed any departure from the uniform rule in taxation, Representative Griswold always pursued a conciliatory attitude, accepting compromises with the classification.

There are a number of other candidates also for the speakership, among them being Representative Dunn, of Wood county, Freeman, of Hardin, Robinson, of Lawrence, and McDonald, of Montgomery.

EARTH TREMORS ARE FELT IN FOUR STATES

ST. LOUIS, November 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Considerable property damage was caused by earth tremors of moderate intensity in Eastern Missouri, Southern Illinois, Western Indiana and Northwestern Kentucky last night, according to reports reaching here today. The tremors shook buildings and houses, toppled chimneys from residences, broke windows, knocked chimneys from shelves and frightened residents in parts of four states, the report said.

Evansville, Ind., and Mattoon, East St. Louis, Benton, Clinton and Eldorado, Ill., and points in the northwestern part of Kentucky, reported feeling the tremors about 9:30 o'clock. The tremors also were noticeable in St. Louis.

Attendants at the seismographic observatory at St. Louis University declared the tremors were recorded as centering southeast of this city and lasted ten minutes.

SANTIAGO, CHILE, November 27.—(By the United Press)—Property of the American Refining and Smelting Company and small coastal boats was destroyed and larger ships damaged in Sunday's earthquake and tidal wave north of Coquimbo, according to dispatches here today. The latest tremors shook the northern coast of Chile for miles. No loss of life was reported. Carrizal and Bajar bore the brunt of a tidal wave which swept far over the smelting company's branch property in two towns. Vessels in the harbor were dashed against water front structures or swept ashore.

TIERNAN AND SECOND WIFE IN TANGLED WEB OF MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE

MARSHALLTOWN, IA., November 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Mrs. Blanche E. Hawn Rash reached this city today during the night and today sought County Attorney A. B. Hoover to inquire as to the status of her marriage with Rash. She told the county attorney that she expected Mr. Tiernan would reach the city some time this afternoon.

Nothing was done about the matter she said, but she and Brimmer came to Chicago where she became a check girl in a Chinese restaurant. While here she learned Brimmer then was being sued for divorce by an earlier wife, whereupon she returned home, but rejoined Brimmer later at Kansas City, Mo.

He disappeared there, she said, and his brother informed her Brimmer was dead.

"Is that all the proof of freedom you had when you married?" Professor Tiernan was said to have exclaimed.

Replying to a question regarding still another romance, Mrs. Brimmer said she had not married the man named, but that she met him in Mason City, Ia., and from there to his town in Enslin, Penn., where his mother told her he was married and the father of a child. The man's mother paid her way back home, Mrs. Brimmer said.

Shortly thereafter she became interested in the Tiernan-Poulin paternity case and began the correspondence with Professor Tiernan, which led to their meeting here last Thursday night, their first sight of each other with two attempts to be married in Illinois before their successful effort at Crown Point, Ind.

Letters Increase In Warmth
Mrs. Brimmer's letters as published by the Chicago Herald and Examiner, began by referring to Professor Tiernan as "dear friend," and gradually increased in warmth of tone until Professor Tiernan is said finally to have replied: "Some day I'm coming after you," to which Mrs. Brimmer was quoted as having responded, "and when you do, you'll find me

Rock Slide Wrecks Plant

MIDDLEPORT, O., November 27.—(By the Associated Press)—A huge rock slide weighing several thousand tons, according to estimates, early today completely demolished the coal tipples, power plant and shops of the Clifton Coal Company at Clifton, W. Va., just across the Ohio river from here. Damage is estimated at $50,000. The slide occurred at 4:00 a. m. when nobody was at work.

Klan Members Visit Church

TOLEDO, O., November 27.—Twelve robed and cowled men, who introduced themselves as members of the Toledo branch of the Ku Klux Klan, invaded the Central Christian church, just outside the business district here during services last night and filing down the main aisle, knelt before the altar and offered prayer, and then presenting the pastor, Rev. Grant W. Speer, with a check, departed.

Eleven of the men were garbed in the white robe and hood of the klansmen with the Klan insignia on the robes, while the twelfth member of the party wore the black robe of the King Kleagle.

The amount of the check, accompanied by a note which said the money was to be used for any purpose the church desired, was not made public by the pastor.

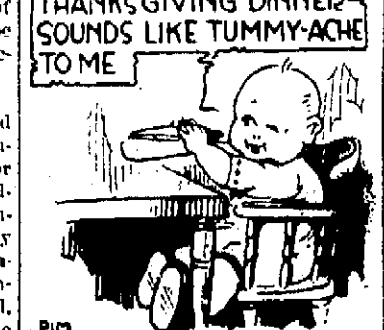

Waiting.
Regarding money, Mrs. Brimmer was quoted as saying: "I have plenty. Money has no attraction whatever."

In another letter this passage was said to have occurred:
"Called him 'My Sakawawin'." "But always you are and will be my Sakawawin."

Reference to books on Indian lore failed to reveal the meaning of Sakawawin. Mrs. Brimmer is the mother of two children, Verden E. Rush six, and Kenneth Rush, four.

Tiger Is Advised To Tone Down His Speeches

ABOARD CLEMENCEAU'S PRIVATE CAR, ENROUTE TO CHICAGO, November 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Deep in a campaign for France that already has brought attacks by Democrats as well as Republicans on the senate floor and criticism from the British government, Georges Clemenceau, Tiger of France, today declared he would speak his piece out in his own way, no matter what he encountered.

The French premier of war days, it was learned today, has received dozens of telegrams from friends and well wishers of France urging him to tone down his remarks so that they will not offend any portion of the nation he came to win.

One telegram urged him to "say things that America wants to hear and be expedient."

"I did not come here to be expedient," Clemenceau declared when he received this message. "I came to tell the truth. I did not come to say pleasing things, but to say the things that would be of value in my judgment, to help preserve the peace of the world. I have never been a compromiser. Now that I have one foot in the grave, least of all will I make a sacrifice to be expedient. I don't want a success of expediency."

Besides the telegrams Clemenceau has had personal suggestions from men of importance as to how he should conduct his self imposed task of seeking American co-operation in settling the old world differences.

To one who suggested a plan to him in New York yesterday, just before he left for Chicago where he is to speak Tuesday, the Tiger replied clapping him on the back:

"That is a good mission for you. I may be wrong, but I must deliver my message in my own way, no matter who dislikes it."

Decreased Death Rate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Figures for practically all states within the death registration area of the country as announced today by the census bureau reflect the decreased death rate for the total area in 1931 as compared with the preceding year. Of the adjusted rates, figured on the differences in the sex and age distribution of the population in the various states, Montana showed the lowest 48.8 per 1,000 people and Massachusetts the highest, 13.4.

For cities of 100,000 or more population, the lowest adjusted rate, 9.2, was reported from Akron, Ohio, while a rate of 10 for Memphis was the highest.

Though he has made no announcement of his attitude towards suggestions that he accept an appointment as a member of the interstate commerce commission, the dispatch states, his closest friends here assert he positively would not accept this or any similar offer.

Local Refuge To Be Dedicated By State Dec. 5

The Columbus Dispatch Sunday

On Tuesday, Dec. 5, Ohio's 20,000-acre tract of wild country in Scioto county will be dedicated as a game and reforestation preserve, one of the first and undoubtedly the largest enterprise of this kind ever undertaken in the United States.

Announcement to that effect was made Saturday by Governor Harry L. Davis, upon his return from a visit on the recently acquired preserve.

The land set aside for the purpose will be known as the "Theodore Roosevelt Preserve," in honor of the father of the movement for the conservation of natural resources in America. Governor Davis had been urged to permit the use of his name in connection with Ohio's first game and forest preserve, but declined the honor, having already determined upon the use of the late president's name.

The dedicatory exercises are to be extremely simple, the governor announced. At 2 p. m. on Dec. 5, the chief executive will unveil a bronze tablet at the entrance to the woodland tract. Representatives of sportsmen's organizations from all parts of the state, state officials and others are to attend.

The state has already begun to stock the new preserve with wild game. Two thousand ring-necked pheasants and several hundred wild turkeys have been placed on the tract and in the future deer, bear, partridge and dozens of other forms of wild game will find their way to the big tract. They will all be under the state's protection, in order that they may multiply and make possible within a few years, a resumption of the kind of hunting which only those of an older generation now recall.

"Ohio's inception of this work for the re-establishment of wild life and for protection and replenishment of natural resources, is being watched throughout the country as ours is one of the first and certainly one of the largest state enterprises of this kind in America," the governor asserted in a statement Saturday.

"The state plans are for a gradual extension of the scope of these activities until in time every acre of land in the state that is now lying waste will be devoted to this purpose of contributing to our food supply and to the production of timber."

Investment For Future
From every standpoint this utilization of land which is now idle and of which there are over a million acres in the state, is an investment which will bring its returns a thousandfold to us and succeeding generations.

Fifteen thousand acres of the tract now under control of the state were purchased entirely with funds contributed by Ohio sportsmen through the payment of hunting license fees. The remaining 5,000 acres were acquired by the agricultural extension department for reforestation work, in order to rebuild the state's timber supply. The price was approximately $5 an acre and the greater share of the cost of maintenance will be defrayed from hunters' licenses. The entire tract will be devoted to the joint purpose of propagating game and restoring the forests.

The Ohio river registered a pool stage of 12.8 feet in the Portsmouth district Monday.

The government steamer Froquois passed down at 7 a. m. Monday. The Greenwood is due to arrive here Tuesday forenoon enroute to Pomeroy.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO COL. EVAN JONES

Editor of Times:
As I read a notice Sunday of the passing of my old friend, Col. Evan Jones, at Ironton, O., I became impressed with reminiscent feelings. Born together on my father's farm at South Point, in Civil war days, scouts and incidentally come through back to my memory of those stirring days. Evan Jones, a strip of a lad then, forced out of the Big Sandy region by war conditions, came and was hired by my father on the farm. He was bright, congenial and athletic, made a good hand on the farm. He and I "dod-hopped" together, and soon became bosom friends. Changes following the passing years seemed to lead Evans to Ironton where he acquired the livery and undertaking business and in which he made a marked success.

Could I have been present at his internment, my tribute offering would have been the flowers of friendship accompanied in vision with these lines:
"Oh lay him in his place of rest:
His earnest, stormy life is o'er.
Let the green sod of spring be pressed

The long-awaited Rex Ingram production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is coming to the Eastland Theatre beginning today.

This is the picture that cost Metro $1,000,000 to make, and from all accounts the $1,000,000 was well spent, as critics agree that all other efforts at production on a grand scale have been made in New York, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Los Angeles and other cities where the picture has been previously shown.

Fifty principals and 2,500 extras were engaged in the filming of the photodrama, an entire French village and an elaborate chateau were erected to be destroyed under the artillery bombardment of the German invaders, and more than 125,000 tons of masonry, steel, lumber and furniture were used in creating backgrounds that are said to reproduce with absolute fidelity the shifting panorama of the story.

The appeal of the story itself has already been proved through the success of the novel by Vicente Blasco Ibañez, upon which the photodrama is founded.

Police Catch Official Of Firm Robbing Safe; To Be Given Help; Not Prosecuted

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 27.—(By The Associated Press)—Police early today were holding an officer of a prominent Cleveland automobile distributing company and $21,000 in negotiable securities, which detectives claim they saw the man steal from the office safe of the company.

As associates of the man declared they would not prosecute him, the man was held on a technical charge of investigation. The police refused to reveal the names of the parties concerned.

Officers of the firm acted on a tip. When the man drove up and entered the company's offices yesterday, detectives were stationed at points of vantage. According to the detectives they arrested the man when they saw him open the safe and take the securities. Two suit cases found in his automobile, the authorities say, indicate that the man was prepared to take a long journey.

"We don't want prosecution," the president of the concern is quoted as having told the police. "To bring charges against this man would only make him a criminal. We knew of the unfortunate mistake he has made and are going to try to help him get back on his feet instead of pushing him down."

"No harm has been done."

Needs 16 Foods

Mothers should remember this. Growing children need 16 food elements, else they are underfed. Those 16 elements are all in oats. They are in right proportions. That is why oats have held for ages the premier place as a child's food. Mothers should also remember this. Some oats are delicious, some are not. Some oats are welcome and wanted. They form the favorite dish in the home. Children eat such oats in plenty. That is the reason for Mother's Oats. That's why we named them Mother's Oats. They are the flakes that children love, and mothers who care should get them.

MOTHER'S OATS

Conrad Is Found Guilty

CHILLICOTHE, O., Nov. 27.—William Conrad, charged with participating in an alleged robbery of a freight train on the N. & W. railway near Delia station about two years ago, was found guilty of grand larceny and burglary by a jury in the common pleas court here. A motion for a new trial was made and will be heard later in the month. The trial was held on Monday. At the first trial Conrad was found guilty and sentenced to the reformatory at Mansfield. An appeal was taken and the verdict was affirmed by the court of appeals. The case was then taken to the supreme court and by it reversed on error in instructions of the lower court.

Roy Lambert and Samuel Frazier, alleged confederates, captured at the same time, will have their hearing on December 11.

Triumphs of M. Jonquille

I advanced to meet the man with a sense of victory. The Service de la Surete had searched the world for him. He had been long concealed. But his sense of victory vanished when I saw him.

He sat in a great chair on the long terrace that overlooked the sweep of lawn and the dark, rapid river. He had been, all the time, under our very noses. We had thought of every other place except an English country house within a jump of London. And he had been sitting here in every comfort that money could assemble.

He did not rise when I was brought out to him. He leaned back in the chair, lifted his heavy face, and laughed. "And so, Monsieur Jonquille," he said, "you finally worried it out of her."

I could not keep my voice level—so effectively was the man escaping us after all this search.

And I did not know what the huge creature meant. On the night before, some one had called up the Service de la Surete and said: "our man was here. The long distance call from some shop in Regent street, London, could not be traced—so it has been a woman! I replied as though I were in his secret."

"She knew you were safe." He laughed again. "Sure, she knew it!"

He pointed to a chair a few feet beyond him across a table. "Sit down," he said. "I want to talk about her—that's the reason I wanted you to come." He laughed again. "You thought you'd sleuthed it out, eh? Not by a jugful. I sent her word to put you wise. I wanted to clear some things up before I came in. But it was a clean lie. What I wanted was somebody to listen while I talked about her. Sit down."

It was a strange introductory. But it was a mystery that had puzzled everybody, and I was willing to hear all that he had to say about it. I took the chair beyond him.

He shot his head forward suddenly, in a tense gesture. "She's a heavenly angel!" he said. "I don't know what God Almighty meant by setting her in the way with the bunch of crooks that he's got running the world—unless He counted on me." The laugh became a sort of chuckle in his big throat.

"Ain't she a heavenly angel?" He whipped a worn photograph out of his pocket and reached it across the table to me.

It was the photograph of a girl with the face cut out. It had been taken from a painting, one could tell from the flat surface, and the strange background of beauty and an indescribable charm in the pose of the girl remained even in the mutilated picture.

"I cut out the face," he added, "so she wouldn't come into the case if you caught me; your little Westridge must have been slaughtered at the loss of her."

Again he touched me at an unexpected point. Shortly after the thing, for which we were seeking the man before me, had as the Americans say, "been pulled off." Lord Westridge returned to England. He had gone to visit some rich Americans, and there was a rumor that some adventure had befallen him.

Nothing definite ever came to me, and I liked the man too little to inquire: all the blood from the original Glasgow solicitor, as the British say, would "bite a shilling." But again I replied as though I were in his secret.

"What happened to Westridge?" I said. The man twisted around in his chair.

"Friend," he said, "you've got a head full of brains or you wouldn't be Chief of the Criminal Investigation Department of the Service de la Surete and the English would not have you over on this case; now answer me a question—What's the biggest notion in the Christian Church?"

"I don't know," I answered him truthfully.

"Well, I know," he went on. "It's the notion that you'll get what's a-comin' to you!"

He looked at me with a big cynical leer.

"That's what happened to your little Westridge, and the next time you see him he's again to get another job. He will be blamed sorry that you found me. He couldn't squeal, any place along the line, but I'll bet a finger he didn't let you forget about me."

And again I saw an incident of this long search, for the man before me, from another angle. The black, acre bank had kept the search hot for him, preventing the public welfare. I saw it now, that was Westridge's money-box, that would be the Westridge in the background.

He eyed me curiously in a moment's pause.

"He kept slipping you the word, eh? Well, she blocked him at that, even if she didn't know it."

There came a sudden energy into his voice.

"And if the plague hadn't got me I'd have saved her that trouble; I'd have played ring-around-rosy with you."

"I want to tell you about this thing," he said. "And then you can go ahead with your warrant."

"I fear," I replied, "that a somewhat higher authority has got in before your King's writ."

He chuckled as though the deadly fact were a sort of pleasantly.

"Sure," he said, "the big Judge has beat you to it."

He looked out a moment, at the woolly Highland cattle in the distant meadow, at the aged beech-trees and the dark, swift, silent water, and then the upper part of his big body settled in the chair.

IT WAS THE PHOTOGRAPH OF A GIRL WITH THE FACE CUT OUT.

"I thought it was a slick trick, but maybe it was God Almighty. Anyway when the thing was pulled off I slid up to Bar Harbor and set down in a hotel. I figured it out like you—you look for a crook in the places that crooks go, and you look for a gentleman in the places where gentlemen go. I'll switch it."

"I got me some quiet clothes. I changed a little to show that I wasn't golf-fit and I didn't talk. I just set about with the New York Times and the Financial Register and let the days pass. When there was nothing in the hotel I was there in my all-right evening clothes, in a chair against the wall, and I slipped along the sea-path in the afternoon for a little exercise."

"I looked some bored to keep the proper form. But I wasn't bored. I was seeing something new and I was getting more light on it all the time."

"I was seeing that this bunch was living up to a standard that nearly all the people I'd ever seen were only pretending. That was the difference. I soon figured it out."

He flung up his hand in a curious, expressive gesture.

"I'm a crook, keep that in your head, and the thing was like a theater to me. I began to watch the actors; then I saw her and Westridge."

He moved in his chair.

"She was there with an old, faded grandmother that read novels and smoked cigarettes—and was a lady. And right there is where this real bunch has got the goods. They don't let down because they do some things that would make you cross your fingers on the other set."

He leaned back in the chair.

"Well! I got to watching her and your Englishman. I watched them dancing in the hotel, and riding, and playing tennis at the Casino—I'd never seen any people like them."

"And pretty soon I got onto something: this Westridge gentleman was trying to buy the girl, but he didn't want to pay for her. He was putting out the bait, but he had a string on it."

"I got on to his dope."

"If he could dazzle her into marrying him she'd get her board and clothes. The real thing that was next to his hide was his money."

"All for me," that was the notion."

He went on with no break in his words.

"I got to thinking about it. This little Westridge was forty; he'd never change; and the girl was at the age when the things he was dangling were all mixed up with moonshine. He might win, and if he did she was headed for hell."

He moved in the chair.

"I used to set about, and look at her, and it made me cold all over. The devil was on the job right here just as he was in the Tenderloin. He was working on a higher-class line, but it was only a different sort of road to his same old hell."

"It would be a heavenly angel thing to a wolf no matter how you dressed the situation up; and I said to myself, 'You can't beat him. The devil's got a set of traps for any kind of a layout.'"

Another installment of this unusual mystery story will appear in our next issue.

Wellston Man Hit By Auto; Dies

WELLSTON, Nov. 27.—Billie Dixon, aged 73, well-known citizen, who had resided with his brother, Edward Dixon, and family on East Fourth street, succumbed to his injuries caused by being struck down by an automobile driven by Frank Montgomery, of Allensville Saturday night about six o'clock at the intersection of Pennsylvania avenue and Second street.

The accident occurred during a blinding snow squall. Montgomery and his father-in-law, Lon McGlothlin, were returning from a visit to William Wood, who is in a hospital at Chillicothe. They were driving slow when the snow squall came up suddenly so that the driver could only see a short distance in front of him. Montgomery stated that he did not see anyone but felt the car lurch as though it had struck an object. He stopped the car and getting out found a man lying on the paving, the wheel of the car having passed over his body.

The man was lifted up and carried to the office of Dr. C. A. Seurlock where he was identified as Dixon and upon examination was found to have suffered from a bad scalp wound and internal injuries. He was vomiting blood and every indication pointed to his being very badly injured. His injuries were dressed and he was taken to the home of his brother, where he lapsed into unconsciousness from which he never recovered, his death being due, according to the physician, from internal hemorrhages resulting from the injuries caused by the wheel of the car passing over his body.

Twenty-four Years Ago

James Foster and Lee Startzman, the invincible East Butler, spurred four rounds for points at Tom Harley's drink emporium. The bout ended with honors about even, but the friends of each claimed the decision.

The old brewery building, from which Brewery Hollow derived its name, was destroyed by fire. The building was erected about 1867 by Ward and Benschler because they conceived the idea that there was money to be made in making beer. They ran it for about a year. Then finding out they had made a mistake in erecting the brewery so far from water supply, they sold out to Meyer and Plugg, who continued to run it for two or three years, when Meyer sold out to Plugg, who, after another year when he gave it up as a bad investment. The failure of the brewery was attributed to the inability of the owners to make a beer that would compete with beer manufactured elsewhere.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I want to tell you about a case I have in mind and maybe you can help me devise a way whereby this woman may gain the love and friendship of her neighbors. The woman I am writing about is a true Christian woman and the mother of a Christian family. She lives in a respectable neighborhood, but there is not a neighbor that will have anything to do with her. They will give her a stiff nod if it becomes necessary to go to her, but that is as far as it goes. Now she does not care so much for their friendship though it would be pleasant to know them better. She has her church and her home, but why this treatment from supposedly Christian women? If they tried up to the Ten Commandments they should "love their neighbors as themselves." I should advise others as they wish others to do unto them. This woman believes and tries to live according to the teachings of Christ, has never harmed anyone in word or deed and has gone more than half way to meet her neighbors. She comes from a good family and has always held herself above reproach. What would you take towards their kind treatment? H. S. E.

I would simply ignore their treatment. I am too independent to care whether anyone speaks to me or not. The woman you have in mind is probably happier the way she is living than if she had lots of so-called shallow friends flitting about her. At any rate she is not missing much by not associating with them, but they are missing the love, respect and influence of a good Christian wife and mother—the uncrowned queen of the home.

Dear Dolly—I have a good leather pocket-book and this handle is worn in two. Will you please tell me where I can take it to have it fixed? X. Y. Z.

You might take it down to Talmage Edwards' pocket-book factory, 209 Front street, the first alley below Court, and have him put a new handle on it for you.

Dear Dolly—I heard that Mary Pickford was going to play in "Rebecca of Sunny Brook Farm." Is this so? If it is, will you please inform me at what theatre she will play, and I shall be ever so grateful to you. CLAUDETTE.

Mary was here in this picture several years ago. If you will watch the theatre advertisements you will find out when and where she is to play a return date.

Dear Dolly—Would you still have the recipe for doughnuts that were sold during the war on Gallia street by the Salvation Army? This was published in the Times before. M. S.

Here is the best doughnut recipe I have: Three eggs, one cup of sugar, one cup of sweet milk, two tablespoons of butter, 2 tablespoons of lard, pinch of salt, 2 teaspoons of baking powder. Mix very soft.

Dear Miss Dolly—I am writing regarding Katherine MacDonald and Pauline Frederick. A friend and I were in an argument regarding these actresses. The argument was that Katherine MacDonald was married and my friend said she had never been married. Now, didn't she marry an old sweetheart of childhood days at the time she won her last beauty contest. Will you kindly look this up about Katherine MacDonald, and kindly tell us about Pauline Frederick. My friend said I had the two turned around. Is Miss Frederick instead of Katherine MacDonald? L. E. P.

So far as I know Katherine MacDonald has never been married. Pauline Frederick has been married and divorced twice, if memory serves me right.

Dear Dolly—Not long ago a letter appeared in your column signed a "Junior Furnace Girl," who was supposed to be seventeen years of age and wanting to get married. Now Dolly, Junior Furnace is a very small place and there are only two girls of 17 living here and neither of us wrote the letter. I don't believe in people making up things like that and telling them on someone else, and we have certainly been imposed on by some busybody who likes to mind other people's business better than they do their own. What is your opinion of a person who would write a letter like that? Please print this as I want my friends to know that I am still in my right mind.

Of course, it was a mean trick to write the letter, but since everybody knows who you are and what you are, that letter won't hurt you any. Then, too, they know that you haven't been going with the men and don't want a man. So I would just forget about the letter. However, people living within a radius of several miles from Junior, claim that as their home, because they have to say they live somewhere and they can't very well say they live in the sticks or woods or hills.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

Jack had hardly crouched down inside the plane before Flip began to bark. He wanted to join Jack, so the little adventurer leaned out and helped him aboard. Then, in the distance Jack saw the aviator approaching. "We will soon be in the air," Jack told Flip.

The aviator came up to his machine and adjusted his machinery. Then he put on his flying goggles and climbed into the driver's seat. Jack and Flip were tucked away a few feet ahead of the driver. Suddenly the plane began to whirl and it whizzed along the ground.

AUSTIN McHENRY, STAR OUTFIELDER OF THE ST. LOUIS CARDS DIES AT HOME IN ADAMS CO.; FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

Austin B. McHenry has passed on the death of this starling young man and star outfielder of the St. Louis National League baseball team, occurred Monday morning at 8:15 at his home, Blue Creek, Adams county. He lapsed into unconsciousness at 9 o'clock Sunday morning and never regained consciousness, his death taking place with loved ones at his bedside. He had been hopelessly ill for several weeks and never recovered from an operation he underwent in Cincinnati several weeks ago for the removal of a tumor from his brain. At first it was thought the operation would be a success, but the real seat of his trouble was not removed and McHenry's condition again, because very serious. After being a patient in the Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati for several weeks, he expressed a desire to return to his old home in Adams county, where he was called out by the Great Unseen. He had no fears of it and freely remarked that he was willing to die. The Supreme Ruler so decreed it. He realized that he was in the prime of life and that he had many years of active baseball ahead of him, but he did not once enter a complaint about his lot. "It seems hard that so young a man as I must die, but I am ready when the Master summons me," McHenry told relatives before he was operated upon.

Just before he entered the operating room he indicated the following message to his manager and intimate friend, Branch Ricker, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals:

"Well Branch, there are 2 on the base and it is 3-2 with me. I would hit at the next one."

The message showed the indomitable spirit of "Mac" as he was affectionately known by his countless friends here, in Adams county, where he was known and loved by everybody, and in every city in the National League circuit. Manager Ricker wired McHenry a telegram of encouragement and kept in daily touch with his condition. They were bosom friends on and off the field, and McHenry's death is a great loss to him personally and to his ball club. Truth to tell, McHenry's illness it is generally conceded, cost the Cardinals a pennant this year. Had he been able to take part in every game there is no doubt but what several crucial games that were lost would have been won by McHenry's bat. He was a demon at the plate and was regarded as one of the surest hitters in the National League.

When Mayor Gableman heard of McHenry's passing away this morning, he said: "I was sorry indeed to learn of his death. He was a credit to the game and a wonderful ball player, a player who was always in condition to give his club his maximum services."

It was in the spring of 1914 when McHenry, then a shy, slender, pink-checked youth reported to Scout Billy Doyle who at that time conducted a school for young players. "Mac" was a diamond in the rough. He reported as a second baseman and fans still can picture him at the keystone sack picking up hot grounders oblivious to the fact that he wore high shoes and looked anything but a ball player. One day McHenry was shifted to the outfield. There he shone with brilliancy. It seemed that no one could hit it over his head and he was a genius on coming in for short line-drives over the infield. He had the keen intuition of playing for this and that batter and it was not long until Manager Gableman made him a regular. From that day on McHenry by his consistent playing began to make baseball history for himself. He finished the year 1914 for Portsmouth and was regarded as one of the best outfielders in this famous little circuit. In 1915 he helped win a pennant for Portsmouth, and his batting was a feature of almost every game. When the State league quit in 1916, "Mac" joined the Peoria team in the Three Eye League. His playing there was as successful as it was in the smaller league, and in 1917 he was sent to the Milwaukee A. A. team. He played a year there and was then sold to the Cincinnati National League team. He was taken South by the Reds and upon their return he was sent back to Milwaukee in 1918. In that fall he was sold to Manager Dickie's team, but did not join the Cardinals until the spring of 1919. He played remarkable ball in Cardinals garb and rapidly developed into one of the best stars in baseball. In 1920 he batted .343 and ranked among the sluggers in his league. In 1921 he batted .350, made 17 home runs, batted in 102 runs and ranked as one of the best left fielders in the game. In 1922 he started at the same place only to fall ill before the season was half over.

Official games show that in the 61 games he played this year up to June when he was stricken in Cincinnati at bat in a 200 clip. One day in Cincinnati, walking up to his manager he said, "Branch, I can't see the balls as they hit on my way. I may miss one so put some one in my place."

That marked the last step in his baseball career for he never donned his uniform again. His trouble failed to yield to expert treatment and slowly but surely his friends began to realize that he was a very sick man, a man who was facing death, but he never lost his smile or his enthusiasm.

He firmly believe that after he got better after his operation he would be able to go South next spring with the Cardinals. But it was not to be and popular, courteous and affable McHenry has crossed the divide from which no traveler returneth. It seems a queer twist of fate that so young a man and who had so much to live for must be cut down when he really was coming into the best days of his short, but brilliant diamond career. It is another of those inscrutable acts from which there is no appeal.

Austin Bush McHenry was born in Adams county, September 22, 1895. In addition to his parents, Dr. and Mrs. O. E. McHenry, he leaves his wife, Mrs. Ethel Young McHenry, a daughter, Leone, aged 5, and a son, Bush, Jr., aged 3. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Alice Smith and a half sister, Miss Jessie McHenry of Adams county.

To know McHenry was to be his friend. He never said an unkind word about any one. It was not in his make up and for this reason he made friends rapidly and always retained their friendship.

He loved to visit Portsmouth, the city that gave him his start in baseball and he never forgot it. He always boasted the River City and he always praised all over the National League. He had countless friends and admirers here and pangs of sorrow will grip many hearts when the news of his death is learned. He was wholesome, dependable, and it is hard to believe that a young man who a short time ago looked the picture of health could be a corpse in his modest little home in Adams county, which he loved so well. Baseball lost one of its shining marks, Adams county one of its most loyal citizens and Portsmouth one of its best boosters when McHenry's star ascended to the heavenly realm. He has passed on, his trip, but deeds that he performed on ball fields before maddening throngs will linger long in the memories of those who knew him best and loved him most. Perhaps the death of no ball player in recent years will elicit as many sincere expressions of sorrow as that of Austin B. McHenry. Dr. McHenry is broken hearted as his whole life revolved around his son, a son ever faithful, loyal and loving.

Funeral services will be held from Moore's Chapel near the McHenry home at 1 p. m., Wednesday and the last rites will be in charge of Rev. Grant of Otway. The body will be laid to rest in the modest little cemetery near the church where "Mac" expressed a desire to be buried, as it overlooks his home.

That McHenry was held in the highest esteem is shown by the following tributes from well known ball players:

"McHenry was a splendid fellow," said Pat Moran of the Reds several days ago in Cincinnati. "There were few men who could rival him, on or off the field. If there was ever a timely blitzer, a fellow who could drive in the runs when they were needed, it was McHenry. As a plain citizen away from the ball park, he was an ace. A born gentleman, a home-loving lad, who was devoted to his little family. I'll say the game loses a wonderful character in Austin McHenry."

"I always admired McHenry's style of play," remarked August Herrmann, "and often regretted that we didn't keep him when we had him. I had some little acquaintances with him and always found him the finest kind of an individual—polite, affable, and from all I ever heard, without a fault or a bad habit of any kind."

"McHenry going out?" exclaimed Tom Griffith. "Say—that's a loss to these lads. They don't come any better than Austin McHenry. He was a grand ball player, and had his best years before him—only 27—and steadily improving. When he joined the Reds—I was with them at the time—he was slim and frail looking, lacked experience, but showed great promise even then. And what a gentlemanly chap he always was! If there was ever a model for young men in the game it was McHenry."

"McHenry was one of the gentlest, kindest fellows I ever met in the big league," said Heinie Groh. "I'd try his best to keep from spiking a base runner or injuring anybody; I never heard him even use hard language to an umpire, and I never saw anyone who was better liked around the circuit. Wife and babies too! Hard, hard lines. He had only enjoyed a little of the big league life and big league pay, and it surely was hard fortune to go like this."

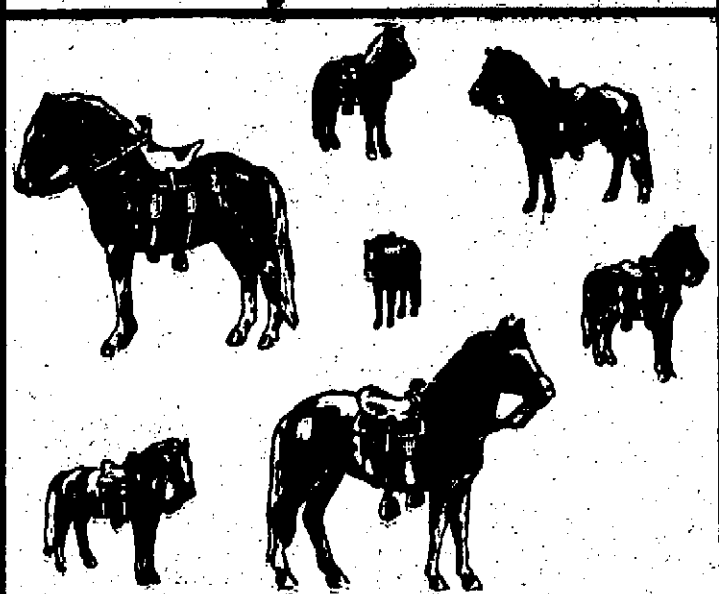

"McHenry dying?" mused Larry Kopf. "Seems odd yesterday that he was out there pulling them down, or smashing out the runs. That boy, single-handed, gave the Reds a lot of beatings in the last two years. He loved the game, but played it with just one object: saving up a little fortune for his family. Fine, honorable fellow, and respected by all who knew him."

"I have met hundreds of the big leaguers," said Rube Bressler, "and never a man who sized up better, as a gentleman and a good friend, than Austin McHenry. Seems pretty tough to be taken away like that, just as he was becoming one of the biggest stars of the profession. Fellows like McHenry give the game its best reputation, and if all young players would copy that last they'd take the right trail to popularity and renown as well."

TO BATTLE ON SIXTEENTH STREET LOT

Millbrook park will not be the scene of the annual P. H. S. Thanksgiving Day game this year for this morning Coach Eccles decided that the Sixteenth street gridiron would be used Thursday afternoon when P. H. S. battles Aquinas high of Columbus. On account of so few persons paying to see the games on the city field, Millbrook park was considered as the place for the Turkey Day battle.

As the team has not played there this season and is used to playing on the Sixteenth street field it was decided to use that gridiron and to make an effort to have more persons pay to see the battle. The single admission Thursday will be 50 cents. High school teachers and students will be out in big numbers selling tickets and no one is to be overlooked at this game. Last Saturday with hundreds witnessing the game the receipts were only $37.50. An effort will be made to take in several hundred dollars Thursday afternoon for the bringing of the Columbus team here means a big expense. Fans are urged to watch out for the ticket sellers so they can contribute their fifty cent piece.

STAGE FIGHT OVER LOAD OF HAY; QUARTET PLACED UNDER ARREST

VANCEBURG, KY., Nov. 27.—Sunday evening, near Garrison, Ky., Melvin Horsley, 23, Wm. Horsley, 19, and Clyde Horsley, a younger brother, all joined in a quarrel with James McGuire.

The quarrel was over a load of hay. The Horsleys claimed that they bought it of a man who had moved away. McGuire also claimed that he bought the hay of the same man who owned both the Horsleys and McGuire. The Horsleys had seized the hay and hauled it home, storing it in their barn.

After quarrelling for an hour or more the men came to blows, several severe bruises being inflicted. Constable Henry Warring was called and arrested all four.

The four men were brought in to Justice G. W. Slugg's court this morning and Melvin Horsley pleaded guilty and drew a fine and costs of $18.40. The other three declined to stand trial and their trial was fixed for Dec. 22, as one important witness was absent.

Fire Fighters Hit Dynamite
TOLEDO, O., November 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—While fighting a fire in a garage in the residence district here early today firemen chopped into a package containing 10 sticks of dynamite, percussion caps and fuses hidden in a wall of the building. The axe cut one stick of the dynamite in half and if the charge had not been water-soaked, an explosion probably would have occurred.

I'd Rather Make Men Than Money

This statement by a prominent manufacturer precisely typifies the policy of this University—teaching the fundamental principles of right and wrong; the moulding of noble character; the making of men and women has been Ohio Wesleyan's principal business for four generations and shall be her guiding light for as many more.

By preparing 30,000 young men and women for life as well as occupation, Ohio Wesleyan has performed an immeasurable service to society. In making men and women, the University loses money. Therefore, she must depend upon society to discharge her obligations by providing endowment funds for the development of a larger and properly paid faculty; more and better equipped buildings; a more extensive campus, and many other requirements so necessary to continue Ohio Wesleyan's eighty years' record of producing strong upstanding, God-fearing men and women.

BODY OF PEEBLES MAN, MISSING SINCE LAST JUNE IS FOUND NEAR THAT VILLAGE

PEEBLES, November 27.—The body of William Cline, who had been missing since the first of June, was found Sunday afternoon in what is known as the Purtee Hollow, near Jay Bird. Some time the first week in June, Mr. Cline called at the store of Charley Walls at Jay Bird, and after eating dinner at the Walls home, started for the house of Dr. Setty, some three miles distant up a hollow and over a hill.

Being stone blind he was helped along the way by different ones and the last that was seen of him, was when he was taken across a foot log by two boys, who started him in the right direction to the Setty home. A few days later Mr. Walls inquired of Mr. Setty if Mr. Cline had been to his home and after being informed that he had not, then Mr. Walls concluded that he had left the path and finally reached a familiar neighborhood. Nothing more was thought about it until Saturday afternoon, when Mr. Walls' son, Elzie, who had been hunting, found two canes which he identified as belonging to Mr. Cline. On Sunday morning Mr. Walls and a number of neighbors started a search.

After locating the canes they continued the search and had concluded to give up when Wilbur Yonkers found the little hand grip in which he carried pencils, shoestrings, washing powder, that he had for sale. A short distance from the grip the skeleton was found. Undertakers Thomas & Thieft of Peebles were called and accompanied by J. P. Jackson, acting coroner, went to the scene. Mr. Jackson identified the remains by that part of the clothing left and his hat and rendered his opinion that Mr. Cline, being blind, lost his way, became exhausted and starved to death. Money was found in his pocket.

Mr. Cline was about sixty years of age and had made his home with the late Al Dunbar in Franklin township. He was a familiar figure in this section of the county. Everybody knew Bill Cline and would have been hunting, found two canes which he identified as belonging to Mr. Cline. On Sunday morning Mr. Walls and a number of neighbors started a search.

Says Boy Scout Methods From Human Laboratory

Scouting is a scheme, a way of doing things. It is a movement rather than an organization. It is intended as a program to supplement the work of the church, the school and the home. When you take into consideration that the average boy has four working hours out of school to each single hour in school, the need of supplementary programs for the leisure time of boys becomes apparent. Scouting is a recognition of the fact that a boy is being educated—that he is receiving impressions and forming habits. Four times as much out of school as he is in school.

Down Russell's Saying

This point in a discourse on the educational aspect of Scouting could not be passed without reference to Dean Russell's celebrated saying that, "the Scout program is the most significant educational movement of the age." It is character education by "direct doing" of the things a boy naturally wants to do.

The Scout movement does not aim to assume the responsibility of either the home or the school for the boy, but intensifies the training of both. The relation of the Scout movement to the school is one of the closest cooperation and mutual helpfulness. One High School principal has described Scouting by saying: "It has done what no scheme has ever done before—made the boy want to learn!" All sorts of methods have been tried out. The Boy Scout method has come out of this human laboratory and the experiment has certainly been successful.

Prevention Better Than Cure

When a boy's mind is occupied with clean appealing activities the doors of it are closed to temptations which knock with desire to enter. The hardest thing for parents and teachers to combat, is that insidious propaganda of evil which is picked up by the unoccupied mind. It can be recognized in the boy's conductance in his growing reticence and unresponsive-ness. But it is beyond reach. He will talk it over. The Boy Scout movement has a preventive method, and it has the counter attack for such conditions. No greater thing for the Portsmouth of tomorrow could be done than to enlist into the Boy Scouts of America every boy who lives in our city and who is of Scout age.

THE FRAMINGHAM DEMONSTRATION

(a) That there were nine active cases of tuberculosis to every death. This means that in the United States there are more than 1,000,000 threatening cases of tuberculosis needing cure; that in Ohio there are nearly 50,000 cases. This agrees with the estimate that 1 per cent of the population has active tuberculosis. An additional 1 per cent has tuberculosis in a quiescent stage. Thus, 2,000,000 people have tuberculosis in some form.

(b) That based on conclusions reached there it is estimated that $2.15 per capita, per annum, will buy excellent health protection. This will go far toward eliminating tuberculosis. If the work is extended over a sufficient period of time, taking the population of the United States as a whole, and extending the payment over ten years, this would mean an investment of approximately two billion dollars. In other words, by paying that amount of money—less than the cost of the war—we should save thousands of lives, and a steady drain of almost a million active cases of tuberculosis. If tuberculosis could be entirely conquered, the actual saving in dollars and cents, after deducting the investment of two billion, could be placed at 23 billion dollars. We should add on an average 2 1/2 years of life to every American citizen. Thus, money spent in anti-tuberculosis work is an investment on which the returns are ten-fold.

It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus energy, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S. since 1875 has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Hollow cheeks fill out. You stop being a family-looker. You inspire confidence. Your body fills to the point of power. Your flesh becomes firmer, the ago lines that come from chronic dieting disappear. You look younger, fatter, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. Many red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them. Ladies and gentlemen, a pretty, bony face doesn't make you look very important or pretty, does it? Take S. S. S. It contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

S. S. S. makes you feel like yourself again

Visitors Are Outclassed

Playing rings around their smaller opponents, the Smoke House eleven won a 53 to 0 victory over Williamsport yesterday afternoon. Williamsport did not offer much opposition and the Smoke House waded through them and often around them for a number of touchdowns.

The Smoke House showed all kinds of plays in this game, starting with a 40 yard pass on the first play. From then on the game was a succession of line plunges and end runs with now and then a forward pass, there being hardly a play that did not result in a good sized gain.

DeVoss, Chabot and Adams made big gains, going through the line. DeVoss made gains of 20 yards and more several times when he hit the line. The forward passing game was worked with perfection. Phillips, Ackerman and Taylor being on the receiving end of the long passes that carried the ball into the visitors' territory.

The tackle plays of Appel and Molster were again worked for big gains, these two lads making several touchdowns. Twice in the second half DeVoss on kicking off sent the pigskin sailing over the Williamsport goal.

The visitors were unable to make an impression on the local line, the linemen on the Smoke House line holding like a stone wall. Williamsport was kept busy punting for they could not come anywhere close to making a first down.

The team Williamsport put on the field would have made a good match for the junior eleven here. The visitors were game and fought hard, but it was too much beef on one side and they were showed milder.

Ironton Hi Shows Mettle

The Ironton Hi team has closed a very successful season. Coach Davies has done wonders with the material available and gave Ironton its first scholastic winner in several years. The team showed its mettle when it held Gallipolis to a tie game.

Coach Roper Has Unique Grid Ideas

Coach Bill Roper of Princeton has some peculiar theories on football, yet they have been highly successful. One of his pet hobbies is that a player should never fall on a loose ball, instead he should pick it up and run with it.

The history of the gridiron has proved that the Roper theory in this respect is a mighty good one. Princeton beat Chicago and Harvard by grabbing a loose ball and running with it.

"An interferer never looks back." That is another Roper truth that is pointed on a sign in the Princeton club house. It is in a spot where it can't be missed as the players file in and out of the dressing room.

It is a rather interesting fact that failure to observe that truth resulted in a Princeton victory and a Harvard defeat in the recent game between the two teams.

George Owen, the Harvard back, after a run of 25 yards and a clear field, was tripped by one of his interferers who looked around.

It is a cliché that Coach Roper has called the attention of the Princeton players to that happening many a time since the Harvard game.

Neale To Quit

This will be "Greasy" Neale's last season as coach of the W. and J. team. He has had a disagreement with the faculty and says he will not return to W. and J.

The game will be the initial floor contest of the season and will be the hardest on the local's schedule. Baseman's Selects hold the floor championship of Ohio.

Klee To Star Next Season

That first-fused Ollie Klee should be a real sensation for State next year. He is the fastest man in the Western Conference and his work has been flashy all season. Had he been supported by the same line as State had when the Harley-Stinchcomb combination was working for Wiley Klee, he would have shone with the same brilliancy as this famous pair of gridiron stars.

Delaware Is Celebrating

W. F. kept its Conference state team, but it had a mighty hard time in beating Denison Saturday, winning by the narrow margin of one point. A fumble after a Denison player had been tackled paved the way for a Wesleyan victory. It is the first real team Delaware has had for a number of years and the student body and Delaware citizens in general have a right to celebrate. Okey for O. W. U.

To Eliminate Barnstorming

By NEA Service
CHICAGO, Nov. 27—Major League magnates are convinced that some drastic action must be taken relative to barnstorming trips after the close of the season.

A year ago when Judge Landis took action in the Ruth-McCormack case there was a strong sentiment in favor of the players among the major league magnates.

It was felt that it was wrong to refuse the right to barnstorm to players who had taken part in the world series.

Things have changed greatly in 12 short months. Practically every magnate now feels that the players must be held in check. It is certain that definite action will be taken on this phase of the sport at the coming meeting of the two major leagues.

It is hinted that some of the barnstorming troupes in the west have not taken any too good care of themselves. Failure to keep in condition has naturally affected their play and caused a number of big league clubs to be badly beaten by small town teams.

A team made up entirely of major league players engaged in a series with a colored professional team at St. Louis and was badly worsted.

The Kansas City club of the American Association played a six-game series with the Monarchs of that city, a professional colored club, and won only one game.

If all barnstorming trips are eliminated after the close of the season the players will have only themselves to blame. They will have brought about such a condition.

President Johnson of the American League admits that barnstorming has become a serious menace. He also says that the club-owners in his league have already given "the matter much thought."

According to President Johnson a 12-month contract with the players, rather than one extending over only six months, is being advocated.

This contract would call for the exclusive rights to the services of the player as a diamond performer and would extend from Jan. 1 of each year until the close of over a period of years.

The players would receive their pay checks in the winter just as in the summer. Such a contract, it is believed, would make it possible for the owners to control the action of the players in the winter as well as summer.

OPENING SOCIETY'S DOOR

There are those people who, to shine in the company of their fellows, yet reveal at every appearance that they have made a poor figure. Awkwardness, taciturnity, lack of anything to say, embarrassment, self-consciousness, all dog their footsteps, and their studied application to the subject only serves to increase their failings.

Emerson has some good advice to offer on this topic, and the persons indicated will find much of value in his observations in this regard. "The secret of success in society," he affirms, "is a certain heartiness and sympathy. A man who is not happy in the company cannot find any word in his memory that will fit the occasion. A man who is happy there, finds in every turn of the conversation equally lucky occasions for the introduction of that which he has to say."

More than that, if he is by nature a precise, businesslike individual, abrupt in his manners and speech, he must cultivate an "ignoring eye," and learn to assume an easy, casual grace, if he is to be acceptable to others.

Society loves creature nature and sleepy, languishing manners, so that they cover sense, grace and good-will. The one who aspires to ease in company must be able to adapt himself to the conditions set by others. Innate kindness and natural generosity will make this a not difficult task; lacking these, some effort must be expended in this direction.

MOVIE MORALITY

The assertion by President Hays, of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association, that the public can help to make the movies behave by supporting only good pictures raises the question: Is the public taste responsible for improper pictures or are improper pictures responsible for the public taste? This is as puzzling as that long-voiced question, Did the first chicken come from an egg or did the first egg come from a chicken?

Unquestionably the public is partly to blame for impropriety in pictures—for among producers, as among other purveyors of amusement to the public, some can always be found who will be disposed to give it what they think it wants. It is also beyond doubt that improper pictures tend to poison the public taste. While none would be so rash as to attempt to apportion the responsibility on a percentage basis, those who have followed the development of the "movies" will be inclined to join the producers and the public in fixing the blame and let it go at that. The task of making and keeping the motion pictures proper is jointly shared.

Mr. Hays, in the administration of his office as head of the Producers and Distributors association, has shown that he fully realizes the responsibilities of those who turn out the pictures, and by his assertion he simply allocates to the public the share of responsibility that belongs to it.

LOVER'S PERJURIES

A Texas court has ruled that right of action in favor of the wife lies against a husband for overrepresenting his possessions and painting the future in rosy colors that pale in the light of facts. This is an attempted limitation on one of the oldest forms of wooing. There is something about courtship that too often makes for such misrepresentation. The masculine lover is prone to disregard reality in pleading his case, and frequently refuses to let fact interfere with the sketches of the future that he draws for the eye and fancy of his innamorata.

It seems rather hard to rate such overdrawings as an actionable tort. While the deceived wife may feel that she has sustained injury, generally it is injury without malice. As a rule it is over-powdering worship of the loved one that leads the wooer to breathe tales of non-existent wealth and promises of future luxury that can not materialize. For the smitten are disposed to win the object of their devotion at any price—even at the price of truth. Of course, women who marry for money are aggrieved at the fading of the rosy picture that won them, but they have their fascinating charms to blame.

The poets say love is intoxicating, and a practical woman will be careful not to place too much reliance on the words of an intoxicated man.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—A page from the diary of a modern "Samuel Pepys": Early up and to walk in the park and saw a lady hung from a runaway horse and she only laughed. At the manège talked to the keeper who told me a bison's name was Ethelbert, which seemed incongruous.

My dog frantically chased the squirrels and howled as though stricken. Thence to my cousin's to see her new dog which she hath named Ods and he looks it, being with fleas and distemper, but of much higher breeding than my own mongrel.

To the train to greet my mother-in-law and all to the Belmont to lunch. Home and worked awhile, but very little so with my wife and T. Millard to meet Pelagius Derling, the Chinese author, and there sipped tea, feeling very uncomfortable and foolish.

In the evening to Gilda Gray's birthday party and came Conde Nast, Frank Crowninshield, Jane Dixon, Karl Kitchner, Jay Kaufman, Mary Eaton, Fannie Brice, Raymond Hitchcock and Gil Boag all very gay. So to bed at last up.

The water front, by the way, is growing more interesting to me every day. I saw a sailor in front of a sea-man's lodging house the other day with false eyes tattooed under his natural ones. He has a lot of fun. When he closes his eyes his face takes on a startling appearance. One looks at it and wants to run. The children call him "Four Eyes." He confesses he had the tattooing done in Singapore one hectic night when he was in the throes of too much rum.

New Record In Coal Loading

A new record for the period since the miners' strike began on April 1 last was made during the past week, the week which ended on November 18, in the number of cars loaded with coal according to reports received today by the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association from the railroads of the country.

Loading for the week totaled 238,893 cars. This exceeded the previous peak week, which was that of November 4, by 7,811 cars. It also exceeded by 23,638 cars the week of November 11, when, however, Election Day and the observance of Armistice Day resulted in decreased production.

Of the total number of cars loaded with coal during the week of November 18, 139,281 cars were loaded with bituminous coal, while 39,552 cars were loaded with anthracite. On the basis of coal loading, production of bituminous coal amounted to approximately 10,900,000 tons, while anthracite was approximately 1,987,000 tons, or a total for both of approximately 12,887,000 tons.
